

Scholarship placement offer For IT graduate/undergraduate (under Erasmus or Leonardo de Vinci programmes)

Company: Concord Media (Concord Film and Video Council)
Based: Ipswich, UK

Concord Media is a non-profit organization registered in UK as a Charity, which distributes educational films and audio-visual programs focused on social issues, social justice, peace, ecology and human wellbeing. The Charity operates mainly in UK but its world wide market is currently quickly growing.

Due to the development of internet technologies and growing oversea demand the Charity is now investing in new ways of distributing educational films via its website and on line streaming.

We are looking for an IT graduate/undergraduate who will be able to contribute to the change process. We require some knowledge and/or skills in at least two of the areas below:

- website design
- website content management systems
- digital formats of audio-visual materials for on line streaming
- database design and application (especially FileMakerPro working on Mac OSX)
- working with Mac OSX computers and other portable devices
- e-commerce

A working, conversational command of English is required, however in more difficult communication our Polish-speaking staff member will support the candidate.

In return you will have chance to improve your English, experience real life case of e-commerce development, practice your skills, learn an English culture and contribute to development of a Charity promoting humanistic and ethical values.

The placement is initially for 6 months and can start as soon as possible.
